HOPE OF HARMONY RISES IN HAVANA DESPITE STRIKES

Grau San Martin and Foes Confer in "More Hopeful Atmosphere," Although Sporadic Outbreaks Still Continue.

AMERICANS CUT OFF IN INTERIOR HOMES

Disorder Prevails in Bulk of Island Outside Large Cities, But Fatalities Are Few Thus Far.

HAVANA, Sept. 24.—(P)—A new series of conferences between supporters of President Ramon Grau San Martin and his leading opponents was inaugurated today in what high political circles described as a "more hopeful atmosphere."

Rebel in Field. Juan Blas Hernandez still was in the field around Santiago, in Cuba's eastern province, and there were scattered reports from Santa Clara province.

From Sancti Spiritus 150 rebels commanded by Gomez and Bartolo Legon, brothers, left last night supposedly to join Blas' forces.

A group of more than 100 striking workers invaded the manganese mines near Cristó, not far from Santiago, but soldiers reinforced the troops sent from Cristó dispersed the workers by firing over their heads. No one was wounded.

A labor situation was reported at Media Luna in the same province but details were lacking because communication lines had been cut.

Sally Eilers Elopes By Air With Director YUMA, Ariz., Sept. 24.—(UP)—Sally Eilers, young film star, and Harry Joe Brown, well known director, were married today after an airplane elopement from Hollywood.

The wedding followed by less than a week the marriage of Jean Harlow and Harold C. Rosson, who likewise chartered an airplane from the screen capital to Arizona's "Gretna Green."

SOVIET DENOUNCES JAPAN FOR EFFORT TO SEIZE RAILWAY

MOSCOW, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Sharp denunciation of Japan's alleged scheme to seize the Chinese Eastern railway in north Manchuria was voiced in the government-controlled press here today.

In the most scathing tone since the beginning of the trouble between Soviet Russia and Japan over the Soviet-Chinese owned line, the press flayed the Japanese and Manchukuo officials. The Ivestia (the News) charges that Japan intends to terrorize soviet directors of the railroad and seize the line.

The newspaper declared that full responsibility rests with Japan, holding that Manchukuo authorities are controlled from Tokyo.

ARREST OF RUSSIANS REPORTED AT HARBIN LONDON, Sept. 24.—(UP)—An exchange telegraph dispatch today from Harbin reported new arrests of Russian-Chinese railway officials following Moscow's recent warning to Japan that Russia would hold the Japanese responsible for any seizure by Manchukuo of the property.

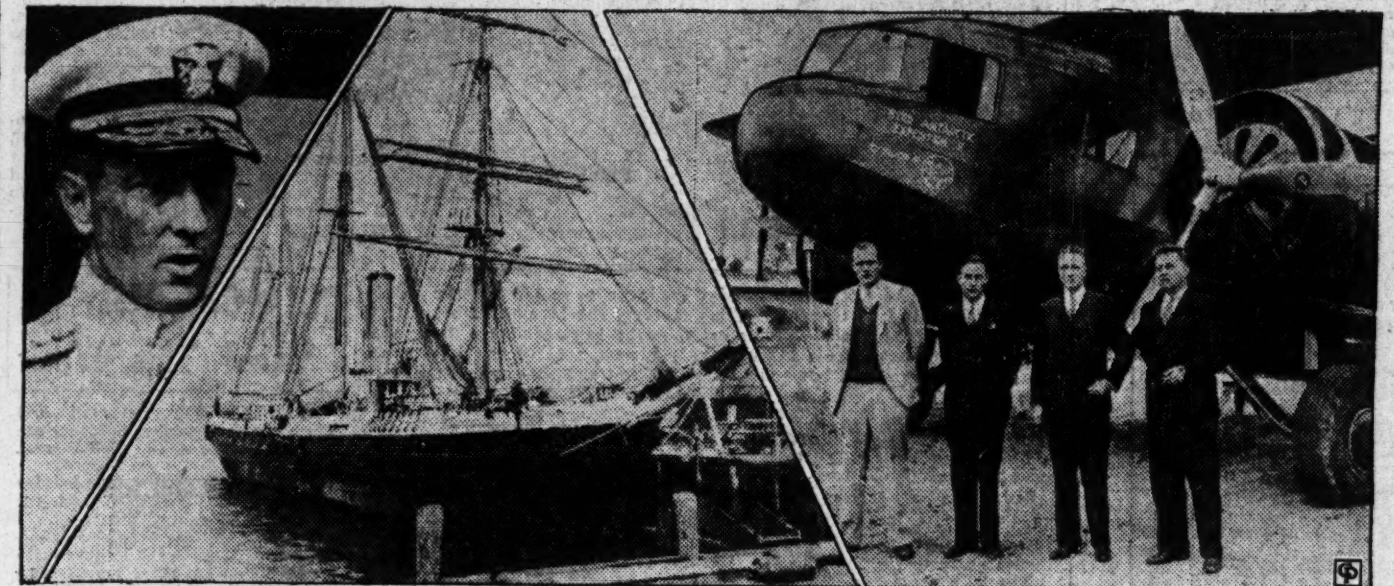

The police this morning took Chief Accountant Kubi into custody. Others arrested included a man named Khalina, manager of the C. E. R. power department; and another named Kurov, manager of the works department of the railroad.

Wrong Medicine Kills Atlantan in Florida ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 24.—(P)—Confusing the names of two medicines, police reported, resulted in the death today of Thomas Edward Gardner, 33, Atlanta, and the serious illness of Victor Parnell, 23, of this city.

Suffering from stomach pains, the men sought to find relief with a medicine suggested by a friend, investigating officers reported. A similarity of names resulted in purchase and swallowing of the wrong medicine.

Gardner died three hours after taking the medicine. Hospital attendants reported Parnell's condition as serious. Funeral arrangements for Gardner awaited action of a coroner's jury impaneled tonight, but which adjourned until Monday to allow officers additional time for investigation.

Byrd and Party of Scientists Will Sail Today On Expedition to Glacial South Pole Regions

Final arrangements Sunday were made by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, well-known explorer, for his second expedition to the antarctic and Little America, which he discovered and named on his first voyage into the frigid regions. The party will travel as far as possible aboard ship.

By FRANCIS H. MURPHY. BOSTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—The ice-scarred Byrd of Oakland, Rear Admiral Thomas E. Byrd's main contact with Little America, tonight was awaiting the dawn for the start to the glacial regions about the south pole.

Last minute preparations filled the day as foodstuffs and scientific equipment were placed into holds and the crew and party of scientists, who will sail with her, were assigned to quarters in the sturdy, compact old whaler.

Final clearance papers for the Bear were issued yesterday by customs officers and at the same time official documents were issued at the customs changing the name of the Byrd flag-ship, the Pacific Fir, to the Jacob Ruppert, in honor of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, of New York.

The delegates, gathered tonight, freely admitted that the League is passing through an acute and dangerous crisis as a result of such disappointing developments as the Sino-Japanese conflict, the failure of the disarmament conference to reach satisfactory agreements, and the result of the purely defensive attitude on the German question and does not intend.

League Life at Stake As Group Meets Today

German Question Overshadows All Others As Assembly Convenes in Geneva After Disastrous Year.

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Great interest also was centered about the personality of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, of Austria, making his first visit to Geneva.

The diminutive Austrian chancellor was received by a cheering throng as he reached the city and he seemed in an affable mood. He got down to business at once, conferring with Sir John Simon, of Great Britain, on the British attitude toward German armament claims.

Later, in a statement to the press, Dollfuss said that Austria will "take a purely defensive attitude on the German question and does not intend."

"Miniature NRA" Seen For Irish Free State

DUBLIN, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Establishment of a "miniature NRA" for the Irish Free State was believed planned today by President Eamon De Valera.

The president plans to introduce a bill in the dail, opening this week, designed to establish a state credit association, with an initial capital of 5,000,000 pounds sterling. It is to finance new industries, especially any new industry expected to affect Irish industrial life.

The officials kept the details of the scheme secret.

GRADUAL ADVANCE IN PRICES SOUGHT BY FISCAL CHIEFS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—President Roosevelt and government financial leaders mapped out their program for credit expansion tonight in a lengthy White House conference that centered on release of funds in closed banks.

It was emphasized both by the president and the conference that "no new moves" other than reinforcing the nation's credit structure were in contemplation.

This was accepted generally as definitely eliminating at this time any inflation of the currency. It means the government is going to use every power to put into circulation money now lying idle in bank tills and funds locked up in closed banks.

Mr. Roosevelt was primarily interested in coordinating all of the government's financial agencies to assure full support to agriculture and business in his price lifting recovery program.

William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, and Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, headed the group which met for almost three hours with the president.

The presence of Attorney General Cummings together with the heads of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the budget, the deposit insurance corporation and other financial agencies led to the definite conclusion that Mr. Roosevelt is going to take quick action on the closed banks.

He wants the four or five billion dollars now locked up in these institutions to be made available as soon as possible, but just what the president has in mind was carefully withheld tonight.

Mr. Roosevelt is believed to hold the opinion that if these billions coupled with the others now lying idle in the banks can be put to work there is no doubt of keeping pace with the price raising efforts of the industrial and agricultural recovery campaign.

Leaving the White House, Woodin said "everybody looks very hopeful."

What the administration is particularly concerned in now is that the banks are sure of the support which the government is ready to give.

The law providing for insurance of bank deposits becomes effective January 1. Certain requirements must be met by banks which are not members of the federal reserve system to become eligible for this insurance.

There have been reports that some banks in order to obtain this eligibility are remaining too liquid and not granting loans to agriculture, industry and agriculture. This was gone into thoroughly tonight.

The president wants the banks to do their part. He has the power to issue new currency but apparently he does not believe it is necessary if the banks pump out the credit which he thinks is now idle.

Mr. Roosevelt has been represented as wanting the bankers to push out the credit they have and as being insistent that the billions now locked up be put to work.

Chicago and Kansas City Slayings Are Linked by Ballistic Experts

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(P)—Ballistic experts tonight said that the killing of Policeman Miles Cunningham here had been linked with the slaying of five men at the Kansas City union station June 17 in a futile effort to free Frank Nash, escaped convict.

George (Machine Gun) Kelly, one of the nation's most wanted sought criminals, is wanted in both cases and federal detectives disguised as farm laborers and workmen have spread out over the midwest in efforts to apprehend him.

Two ballistic experts from Kansas City after studying the bullets which killed Cunningham Friday when he sought to question a mail robbery gang, joined local authorities in saying their markings were similar to the ones on bullets taken from victims of the Kansas City slayings. Four officers and Nash were moved down in an attempt to free Nash from the officials returning him to Leavenworth penitentiary.

Detective Chief William Schoemaker said the linking of the two crimes was evidence that authorities were dealing with an interlocking gang that apparently worked on a nation-wide basis.

Kelly also is sought in the kidnapping of Charles Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma City oilman, Harvey Bailey, reputed associate of Kelly in the direction of the gang, already on trial along with others for the crime.

Letter to Talmadge Scores North Atlanta 'Speed Trap'

Attention of speed trap investigators Sunday was directed to the little town of North Atlanta, DeKalb county, as the Lulu-Bellon controversy simmered down to await developments from intervention by Governor Eugene Talmadge in an arrest-commission type of law enforcement.

North Atlanta, situated in the Oglethorpe University section, came for its share of criticism when O. A. Carter, Gainesville grocer, directed a letter to Governor Talmadge stating that he and three companions, all Gainesville citizens, were stopped in the DeKalb town two weeks ago and he was assessed a bond of $15, although, he claims, he was not driving at a reckless rate of speed.

Sheriff Jake Hall, of DeKalb county, said that he has received numerous complaints in the past about an alleged speed trap at North Atlanta, but has received none lately. Efforts to abolish North Atlanta's charter were to have been initiated in the last session of the legislature, but met a stumbling block when it developed that the town operates under a superior court charter and that it would be necessary to pass an act repealing the law on such charters, thereby affecting a large number of innocent towns.

Complaints of Speeders. H. O. Tate, who resigned as mayor of Lulu after Governor Talmadge called Lulu and Bellon on the carpet, continued in Page 3, Column 3.

Johnson Masses Resources of NRA

Recovery Administrator Expected to Return to Desk Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(P)—New stimuli to keep the NRA linked closely with President Roosevelt's credit expansion plans were being studied tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator.

Confined to his apartment for three days with an infection, Johnson was reported to have canvassed thoroughly every hope of the campaign for industrial stimulus.

He expects to return to his desk tomorrow, and as one of the early moves to call for a gigantic buying campaign under the Blue Eagle to support unemployed workers in their efforts to raise wages and increase employment.

This appeal to the country to buy "to the limit of prudent needs" has been promised industry by the administrator, but it has been delayed until he believed the time opportune.

Officials indicated the plea for greater consumption would go out about October 1, and by that time Johnson would have the important retail code promulgated.

Johnson expects to concentrate upon this master retail charter and the retail code, hoping to find a basis of agreement for the opponent and proponents of the controversial price-regulating provisions which they contend.

These features—designed to prevent indiscriminate price-cutting—were attacked today by counsel for large retail drug groups as a "consciousness attempt by selfish interests to gouge several hundred million dollars a year out of consumers."

"This is particularly the fight of the wage-earner and the farmer," Myron M. Cohen, Washington attorney, said in a statement. "Organized labor and the farm organizations should make known their opposition to the unreasonable price increases permitted by these codes before it is too late."

Against Price-Fixing. "Both labor and farm leaders have told us they are against price-fixing. Consumers generally can save themselves from what amounts to a huge

Kidnaping of Girl, 22, Is Charged to Tampan

Fulton county authorities Sunday detained Ike Sheets, 33, of Tampa, and Mildred Andrews, 22, also of Tampa, at the request of Sheriff W. C. Spencer, of the Florida city, who wired Sheriff James I. Lowry that he holds a warrant for Sheets charged with kidnaping of a Florida kidnapping statute.

Sheets and Miss Andrews both said they would waive extradition, and the Fulton sheriff's office notified Florida officers to come for them.

The two were taken into custody by Deputy Sheriff S. G. Davies at the home of Sheets' sister, Mrs. G. W. Cobble, 333 Third street, N. W., officers said.

Miss Andrews said that she knew nothing about the charge of kidnaping against Sheets, but that they left Tampa on August 7 in company with Bryan and Miss Johnson for Chicago to see the Century of Progress exposition. Bryan and Miss Johnson left for Tampa on Friday, she said.

Archduke Otto Makes Bid For Empty Austrian Throne

The Archduke Otto, who Sunday made an open bid for the empty throne of Austria, is shown with his mother, the former Empress Zita, who, through the years of their exile, never has abandoned hope that her son again would rule from Vienna, ancient seat of the Hapsburgs. To this end she raised her son as a king's son and sought to fit him to rule although both were still exiles.

By ROBERT H. BEST.
VIENNA, Sept. 24.—(UP)—Handsome young Archduke Otto, at once a Hapsburg and a Bourbon, today made an open bid for a Hapsburg restoration in Austria, with himself on the throne as "emperor and king."

The 20-year-old son of ex-Empress Zita delivered his appeal in letters to three Austrian towns which, this summer, offered honorary citizenship to the young archduke. The appeal was made with the blessing of the Roman Catholic church and the approval of the Austrian government.

His pronouncement—closely following Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' establishment of a semi-fascist control over the troubled republic—created a sensation.

The three towns—Hain, Mamau and Ragelsdorf-Weidern—assured Otto of their allegiance and loyalty to his cause, and expressed hope that he soon would become sovereign of Austria.

Otto replied in separate letters addressed to the three town halls and enclosing signed photographs of himself. These were presented to the burgemeisters of each town in a picturesque ceremony at the town hall of Hain this morning, in the presence of a distinguished company which included numerous monarchist leaders and several minor state officials.

Otto's letter predicted that the day is not far distant when "with God's help," he will be in Austria again "leading his homeland with a strong hand, happy and sure of a great future."

He emphasized the injustice of laws which brought abolition of the throne and described himself as "the heir of the past."

He interpreted the offers of honorary citizenship as a monument to his father, the Emperor Charles, who died in exile on the island of Madeira, and as a protest against the "revolutionary political iconoclasts who themselves betray the democracy they claim to serve."

The young archduke, who is now in Belgium with his mother, bitterly attacked the Nazi party as "un-Austrian, treasonable and criminal."

He expressed faith that the present regime in Austria will remove the "unjust laws" directed against the Hapsburgs and he indirectly praised the plan for a corporate state as put forward by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss. He assured all Austrians, and especially the peasants of the land, that if he is restored, he intends to remedy the economic situation.

Since the death of his father Otto and his mother, together with her seven other children, have wandered from country to country. Though they had little money and had to depend upon royal relatives for their maintenance, Zita constantly worked toward the goal of restoration, instilling in the heart and mind of her eldest son the spirit and intelligence which she wholeheartedly believed would eventually put him on a throne.

Every inch a prince, Otto is shy and serious. He is known for his scholarship and in 1931 passed his examination at Louvain with an average of 99. With his mother he lives at Steenokkerzele castle, about six miles from the heart of Brussels. He drives to the university in a Ford car, and avoids all strangers and newspapermen who try to approach him.

He speaks German, French, Spanish, Italian and English, in addition to a flowing Hungarian. His extreme handsomeness has, for several years, stirred the romantic sympathies of many women throughout Europe.

LEAF MARKETS REOPEN IN CAROLINAS TODAY

Sales To Be Resumed Following Holiday of Four Weeks.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 24.—(AP)—South Carolina and North Carolina, new bright leaf tobacco markets will reopen tomorrow after a suspension by gubernatorial proclamation during which efforts have been made by the federal government to boost prices of the weed.

Indications pointed to heavy breaks in some of the sales centers, although Governor E. B. Rouse III urged the farmers not to rush their tobacco to market, fearing that such a course would defeat the government plan to raise prices to parity, estimated at about 17 1/2 cents a pound.

Governor E. B. Rouse III's proclamation closing North Carolina warehouses was issued four weeks ago today. Governor Ibra C. Blackwood followed the North Carolina governor and closed warehouses in South Carolina.

The South Carolina holiday was declared at an end by Governor Blackwood last Tuesday but warehousemen agreed to keep their markets closed until the Tarheel markets opened.

During the holiday a campaign to reduce production in 1934 and 1935 was successfully carried out and a processing tax of 4 1/2 cents per pound will be levied, effective October 1, to insure growers benefits for co-operating.

This year's crop of tobacco is estimated to be about 11,000,000 pounds, or about 10 percent less than last year's crop.

Since the death of his father Otto and his mother, together with her seven other children, have wandered from country to country. Though they had little money and had to depend upon royal relatives for their maintenance, Zita constantly worked toward the goal of restoration, instilling in the heart and mind of her eldest son the spirit and intelligence which she wholeheartedly believed would eventually put him on a throne.

Every inch a prince, Otto is shy and serious. He is known for his scholarship and in 1931 passed his examination at Louvain with an average of 99. With his mother he lives at Steenokkerzele castle, about six miles from the heart of Brussels. He drives to the university in a Ford car, and avoids all strangers and newspapermen who try to approach him.

He speaks German, French, Spanish, Italian and English, in addition to a flowing Hungarian. His extreme handsomeness has, for several years, stirred the romantic sympathies of many women throughout Europe.

Translation of Motion Into Matter Noted in Experiments on Radiation

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.
(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press.)
PASADENA, Calif., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Experiments showing pure motion apparently changing into solid matter—indicating that for the first time man actually has seen the miracle of creation of matter—are described in the latest reports of several world-famous radiation laboratories.

Principally they come from the California Institute of Technology here and from Cambridge, England. The young physicists who made the discoveries confine their reports to describing facts verified by photographs. But their co-workers in other laboratories say it is the first inkling of creation of matter.

Stated in its simplest terms, the story is that fast-flying radium rays are converted into electrical particles. No motion, or nearly none, is left.

Each ray is transformed into two particles, one of the negatively charged electron, the other the positively charged, and recently discovered positron. These two kinds of electricity, positive and negative, science believes compose every kind of solid matter, from man to stars.

The story of how creation of matter was found may begin with a recent report of Dr. Kenneth Bainbridge of Bartol Research Foundation of the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia.

He pointed out that when the metal lithium is bombarded with alpha particles traveling about 10,000 miles a second, the bombardment yields boron plus a neutron. The neutron is a recently found particle having no electrical charge. The alpha particles used were helium nuclei thrown off by the chemical element, polonium.

This boron-neutron product of the bombardment, when weighed, proved to be heavier than the sum of all materials which made it. Specifically an original mass of 11.0146 on the atomic scale had become 11.0202. The gain in weight was .0056.

There was nothing to account for this increase in weight except that the speed of the alpha particles had been converted into solid matter.

"Can this be a case," Dr. Bainbridge asked when he made the report, "in which the energy of motion of the alpha particle is transformed into mass, a creation of matter from energy?"

The experiments which he analyzed were made by the daughter of Mme. Curie and by Joliot in France and Chadwick in England. For the chemically-minded, the formula of this conversion is  $E = mc^2$ , plus alpha particle plus 2 E, a mass of 11.0146, becomes B plus N plus 1, having a mass of 11.0202. In this formula B stands for the lithium atom of mass seven, E for electron, B for the boron atom of mass 10 and N for neutron.

Although this made it evident that motion may change into matter, the process of conversion was not known. The California experiments furnish photographs which apparently show conversion caught in the act, a conversion different from, but akin to, the alpha particle speed transformation. The pictures are trails in vapor made by the positive and negative electrical particles.

They grew out of the discovery of the positron, the positive particle as small as the electron by Dr. Carl D. Anderson, of California Tech. These positive particles appeared to be generated by cosmic rays, which are even more energetic bullets than are radium rays.

Doing some calculating on this discovery, W. H. Furry and J. F. Carlson, of the University of California, showed that if a high speed positive particle of electricity hit the strong electric field surrounding the nucleus of an atom, two particles, one positive and the other negative would be ejected.

Yet the stricken atom itself would remain apparently unchanged. Again this was an indication that motion, this time the speed of the positive particle, had been converted into matter.

Anderson's latest discoveries show this very thing seemingly happening, not from hits made by positive particles, but from the impacts of the gamma rays of thorium C-2. These are the same as the immaterial rays emitted by radium and the basis of the gamma rays of thorium C-2. These are the same as the immaterial rays emitted by radium and the basis of the gamma rays of thorium C-2.

In the same way similar pairs of particles have been obtained at Cambridge by Blackett and Occhialini.

PARIS MAY ABROGATE GERMAN TRADE PACT
PARIS, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Abrogation of the Franco-German trade treaty of 1927, which is the basis of French commercial relations with other countries, was reported under consideration by the government today.

The treaty is considered unusable in view of current conditions and has been a subject of discussion since the regime of former Premier Edouard Herriot. Government agencies long ago expressed the intention to ask for reciprocity in the negotiation of new accords, suggesting that defensive measures would be taken against countries practicing either excessive protectionism against France or the "dumping" of goods into this country.

Renunciation of the treaty would enable negotiations for the exchange of goods on a 50-50 basis, the new plan setting aside three-fourths of the import quotas for that purpose.

Negro Shot to Death By Mob in Alabama

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 24.—(P)—Taken from his home by a group of men posing as officers, Dennis Cross, negro, was shot to death early today.

The negro was under bond on a charge of assaulting a Tuscaloosa white woman.

Sheriff R. L. Shamblin, who, with police, began an immediate inquiry into the slaying, said officers had found no clues to identity of the slayers.

Sheriff Shamblin said he was told a group of men, six or seven in number, called at the negro's home about 2 a. m., and, telling him they were officers, said he would have to go to the sheriff's office and make a bigger bond.

AVERAGE BREAD PRICE SHOWS GAIN IN U. S.

Atlanta Figure Advance 2.3 Cents From Feb. 15 to Aug. 29.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The average price of white bread per pound loaf advanced 2.3 cents in Atlanta from February 15 to August 29, according to figures compiled by Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers counsel of the agricultural adjustment administration, following a survey of the bread situation in 49 representative cities throughout the country. On February 15 a pound loaf of white bread could be bought in Atlanta for 6.3 cents, while on August 29 the price has risen to 8.6 cents.

In Savannah, the increase was 2.2 cents, with bread selling for 6.8 cents the middle of February and 9 cents the latter part of August.

Although Dr. Howe has requested the American Bankers' Association for an explanation for the "wide disparity in price in various sections of the nation," he explained that up to the present time he has received no complete answer to his complaints. He lamented the fact that while leaders in other food industries have been working for years to establish quality standards for milk, butter, meats, and canned goods, nothing in this line had yet been done by the baking industry.

Continuing he said: "Some states and cities now have laws governing weights, requiring bread to be sold only in multiples of a half-pound. These laws seem to be working out satisfactorily. Instead of waiting to pass laws on weights the bakers might well show their good will toward the public by including rules in marketing agreements."

The average retail bread price in 49 cities was 7.0 cents for a pound loaf on August 29, unchanged from August 15, Dr. Howe said. Possible lowering of quality, it was intimated, may have produced an actual increase in price from the standpoint of quality, however.

The price per pound loaf in reporting cities on February 15 and August 29 included:

Feb. 15, Aug. 29.

"The threat of the stock exchange to move out of this state, which it is apparently about to carry into effect, if the law becomes effective taxing the gross incomes of the business of its members for the brief period of five months as a contribution toward furnishing food and shelter to the suffering and unemployed, presents to the entire country a new and grave problem and object-lesson in insubordination, evasion, and defiance of lawful authority.

"Crash injuries fatal to former Georgians." "Accidents fatal to 18 in South." is a headline that appeared in the Atlanta Constitution September 4 on Labor Day, referring to accidents that happened on the Sunday previous.

If you will read the headlines appearing in The Atlanta Constitution concerning these accidents, and especially every Monday, you will not doubt be impressed with the lesson they teach, which is, that they are just as likely to happen to one person who rides in an automobile or walks on the public highway or the streets as it is to another, and no one is absolutely safe.

There is only one thing to do to play safe, and that is to take out protection against travel and pedestrian accidents. Every day you read some glaring headline, telling its disastrous story of lives claimed and bodies left bleeding and maimed in the wake of the ever-growing accident wave.

What would be the total of this entire section if all the traffic accidents were published in the Atlanta papers daily?

Are you protected against financial suffering that follows accidents? Is the future of your wife and children safeguarded after you fall victim to the peril?

"I USE HYDRAULIC BRAKES 600 TIMES A DAY!"

AN INTERVIEW WITH JOSEPH PREHER, DIV. CIRCULATION MGR., LOUISVILLE (KY.) HERALD-POST

"No more of the old kind for me... after owning a Plymouth"

NINETY-FIVE news-stands wait eagerly for Joe Preher to come rushing around every time a new edition hits the street.

He's got to make time... keep a split-second schedule... slam on the brakes 600 times a day.

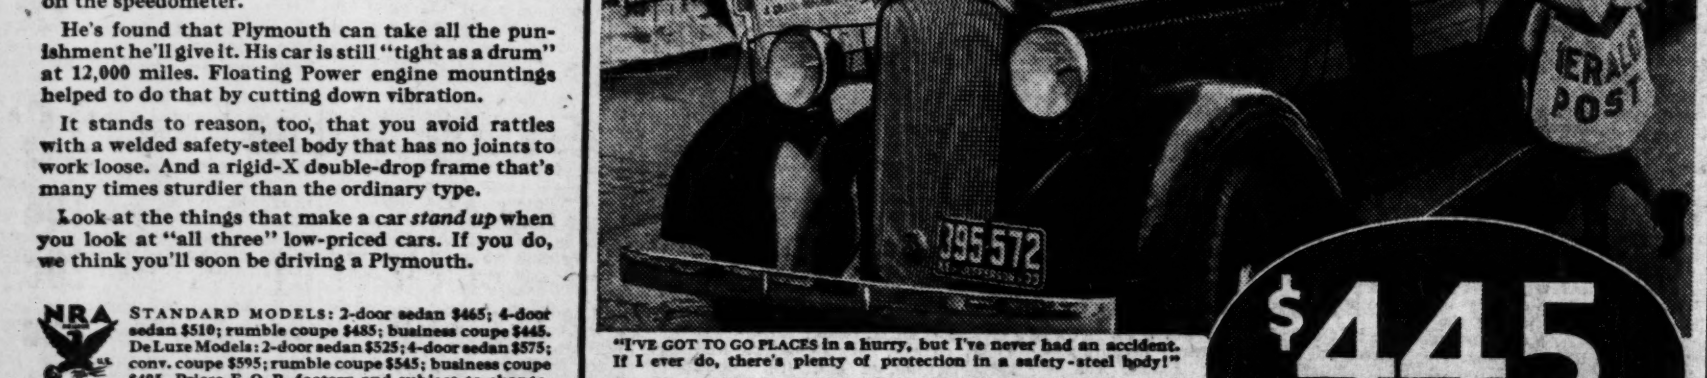

Working his brakes so hard on his former car cost him plenty for adjustments and relining. But with Plymouth's hydraulic brakes, it's a far different story. They're always equalized. They stop faster and evenly. And they make brake linings last longer!

Brakes are not the only thing that must stand up on Joe Preher's car. For he puts 50,000 miles a year on the speedometer.

He's found that Plymouth can take all the punishment he'll give it. His car is still "tight as a drum" at 12,000 miles. Floating Power engine mountings helped to do that by cutting down vibration.

It stands to reason, too, that you avoid rattles with a welded safety-steel body that has no joints to work loose. And a rigid-X double-drop frame that's many times sturdier than the ordinary type.

Look at the things that make a car stand up when you look at "all three" low-priced cars. If you do, we think you'll soon be driving a Plymouth.

AID FOR BONDHOLDERS.

With $500,000 citizens of the United States holding $7,000,000,000 of foreign securities, on which there are annually approximately $100,000,000 of defaults, plans are under way to organize a protective agency qualified to represent these American investors in any negotiations with the debtor countries to bring about the resumption of payments or to arrange necessary compromises.

Of the $7,000,000,000 in foreign securities held in this country, a billion and a half is already in default, and the situation is growing steadily worse as the default of interest payments is not only depriving the bondholders of any revenue from their investments but is steadily depressing the market value of their securities.

No adequate legal machinery exists in international law to force the payment of these foreign securities. The methods of procedure are indefinite and practice and precedent are yet to be established. In view of this situation, only through united action can the holders of these securities hope to get the maximum amount possible out of investments which are now, in many instances, practically worthless.

Great Britain and other European countries, large investors in foreign securities long before they were traded in to any great extent in the United States, years ago realized the necessity of joint action on the part of bondholders. The British Council of Foreign Bondholders, organized in 1868, is governed by a council of 21 members, of whom six are nominated by the British Bankers' Association and six by the London Chamber of Commerce, with nine members nominated by the other 12. It has been such an indispensable guardian of public interest in protecting the financial world that it now holds the confidence both of the investing public and the issuing houses of Great Britain.

The securities act passed by the last congress sets up a similar plan for the United States, except for the fact that the board is to consist of only six members. Pending the working out of the national recovery program, the administration has not set up this board and one of the chief designs of the proposed bondholders' organization is to pave the way for the creation of this governmental agency at the earliest possible time.

The National Federation of Foreign Trade Association is co-operating actively in the movement in the belief that the settlement of the defaulted securities problem will go far towards increasing commerce between the United States and other nations, especially those in Latin America. The correctness of this position is argued by the improved trade with Brazil following the removal of the deadweight of blocked foreign balances by the agreement reached some months ago under which these balances are to be paid over a period of years.

These so-called "blocked balances" are American funds in Brazilian banks in the currency of that country and which, under emergency rulings issued by the government, could not be transferred out of the country. While they are dissimilar to the defaulted bonds, in the last analysis the result is the same—that Americans cannot get their investments or profits out of the foreign nations involved. Hence the belief that the settlement of the defaulted securities situation would have the same beneficial effect as resulted from the blocked balances agreement.

Much of the acute distress in the United States came from the collapse in the value of the $7,000,000,000 of foreign securities held by American investors and their failure to receive the returns from these investments that they had expected.

The solution of this problem will go far towards speeding the American recovery program and undoubtedly the proposed organization of bondholders would be helpful.

TAMMANY ON THE SPOT.

The recent primary election in New York City emphasizes the critical situation in which Tammany finds itself as the result of internal friction and strengthened opposition.

In a total vote of approximately 400,000, independent candidates from within democratic ranks amassed a protest vote of 125,000. Mayor O'Brien was safely renominated, but in other contests there were sharp and significant upsets, the Tammany candidate for comptroller being defeated by a former deputy in the office who had been displaced, and several of the district leaders backed by the Tammany board of control losing their positions.

The naming of these new leaders may spell defeat for Tammany Leader Curry. With none too strong a margin of support in the ranks of the organization, several district leaders who formerly were for him have flocked since the primary and others are said to be wavering.

Chiefly behind the attack on Curry lies his split with President Roosevelt. A strong sentiment has grown up in Tammany for the selection of a leader who would again unite the New York democratic organization with the state and national organizations, and it will not be surprising to see Curry step out, or be forced out, before long.

In addition to accentuating the dissension in its own ranks, the result of the primary has added zest to the campaign for mayor being conducted by former Representative LaGuardia with the backing of a strong fusion organization.

What with the malodorous Walker administration, the present bankrupt condition of the municipal government, the split in its own ranks and the campaigning ability of the opposition it will face in the approaching mayoralty election, Tammany undoubtedly faces its most serious threat of defeat in many years.

FASCISM'S COST TO GERMANY.

Premier Goring, of Prussia, is happy because Germany has cast out of its government the "pacifists and parliamentarians" and replaced them with "men of action."

The optimism of this doughy nazi is hardly in line with the facts surrounding Germany's condition now and before the Hitler government took charge.

Under the previous governments Germany steadily advanced in the good graces of the world, to the extent that the payment of reparations had become practically a dead issue. Now Germany is ringed around with antagonistic nations, even Austria, her former closest ally, being aligned against her.

Furthermore, points out the Baltimore Sun, "Handsome Adolph's" fellow fascist, Mussolini, now sides against him and looks with suspicion on his intentions." The Sun sizes the present situation up with the comment that "Germany, which had, during the control of the 'pacifists and parliamentarians,' shattered the alleged iron ring around her borders, has, under Hitler, Goring and Gobbels, forged even stouter chains of resistance."

At the time Hitler came into power the world had gradually come to the realization that the rehabilitation of Germany was necessary for the welfare of other nations, and there was a universal inclination to extend every possible aid to her. This desire has disappeared before the excesses of the nazi regime, and Germany now faces a renewed antagonism, instead of the friendly attitude which had developed.

In view of this change, and the fact that the glowing promises of economic and social reforms have not, in a single instance, been made good, it is not surprising that Hitler's stranglehold on the country is weakening.

The great mass of the conservative German people have not joined in the hysteria which greeted the assumption of power by the nazi regime. Rather they have remained aloof, awaiting a time when Hitler should bring about his own downfall.

There are definite indications now that their hopes may not be in vain, for while the nazi fanfare is still going lustily on, the cost that Germany has paid for the fascism try-out, and the lack of material betterment of conditions in the country, can bring but one result—the discrediting of Hitler's leadership and his ultimate loss of control.

It will take a return of prosperity to make high hats look exactly right.

Some people have to boil down an idea for it to soak in.

Marley on Japan.

Lord Marley, the former British labor minister and now vice president of the house of lords, who has been active in anti-war work, had a disagreeable experience in Japan. Upon arrival there he was met at the ship by a host of policemen, who escorted him to his hotel and then subjected him to four hours' questioning. He was refused communication with the British ambassador and even with Reuter dispatches. The government showed the greatest nervousness, Marley told newspaper correspondents later.

Knowing Lord Marley quite well, if only for having traveled on shipboard in the same cabin with him for eight stormy days, it is difficult for me to say how the powerful Japanese government could be so nervous about him. He is gentle personified. It is true that Marley is a determined opponent of war and makes no bones about his beliefs that war is a senseless, scandalous and ruinous business. Not all Japanese agree with this. War can also be profitable. Especially when your opponent is too weak to stand up. Incidentally the police confiscated some of Marley's property—a volume by a man named Voltaire. They probably hadn't heard of that man in Japan or else took him for a communist. Voltaire I mean. Voltaire sometimes are that way.

Speaking on conditions in Japan to Reuter's Lord Marley declared that a state of extreme tension was prevailing between two warring nations. The war party was in favor of an immediate war. The other, the anti-war party, had the support of the liberals and of labor. He considered that anti-war sentiment was much stronger than was generally believed abroad, hence the panicky situation and the government's uncertain position, which was ripe for an early conclusion.

He said that British and American were now regarded in Japan as enemy aliens. The war party had enormous ambitions. It was determined to crush China, then Russia, and then the United States. He thought the Anglo-Japanese situation was equally critical. If at least a powerful party in the state and Lord Marley is not the only one to have observed these things, it must be a case with Japan of "whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." A nation like Japan, which is teeming the breadline, may seek escape in a foreign war. But it is a measure of desperation, which is not definitely guaranteed to lead to success.

French President Bumped.

The president of France, M. Lebrun, was walking down the street of a country town the other Sunday, deeply immersed in thought, when a butcher boy bumped into him with his bicycle and knocked him over. The boy was promptly arrested and an inquiry was opened. M. Lebrun, however, intervened, saying that it had been his own fault, and sent the boy on his way.

"Could it have happened in any other country?" asks an English paper. Possibly not, but it wouldn't do any harm if it did happen. A little of that spirit of sweet reasonableness and high places would go far to solve some of the world's problems. The practice of bumping presidents, and such people, calls for a certain moderation of course, but if it is going to produce such happy results, the sooner a clout on the cranium is administered to some high person the better. ## Health Talks

By Dr. William Brady

WHAT EXAMINATION DO YOU EXPECT FOR TEN BERRIES?

It has been my experience, writes a reader, and I have taken a good many examinations, that the majority of physicians go about this in a most perfunctory manner—listen to the heart and lungs, watch your chest as you inhale and exhale, jab you in the stomach a few times, tap your knees, and make a cursory test of the urine. One doctor did ask me to remove my shoes and stockings so he could look at my feet, but I never knew why. What things should a layman insist on when he applies to a physician for a physical examination or health examination? If we had this information we could wake up some of these birds who think nothing of charging ten berries for such casual inspection. (H. V. H.)

In my judgment the routine once-over laconically described by the correspondent is a good general working plan for the service. The physician may proceed to put him through his paces and make careful measurements of his functional condition. All this takes time and skill and time and skill are the physician's stock in trade. What do you expect for ten berries any way?

Why, plenty of doctors charge from ten dollars up for just measuring and advising about posture in cases of latent spinal curvature, prostatic feet, viscerotaxis and the like. If the patient or client desires a thorough health survey he must come prepared to strip and go the gamut of special examinations.

A competent physician can do so.

SUGAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A sweet little sugar deal has been cooked up backstage by representatives of that industry. It is so sweet that the administration has been holding it back.

State Secretary Hull has been hiding it in his desk for days, hoping nothing would leak out. He is quite sure Cuba would find it unpalatable, because it proposes to treat Cuba in a very unrefined way.

Also there is some question as to what it would do to the dear old consumer in the United States. Unquestionably the administration will make a few alterations in it before it lets it see the light of day.

ALLOTMENTS Those who have peeked into Hull's desk say the agreement offers the following production allotments (in short tons): United States beats 1,750,000 (fine for domestic growers). Cuba 1,700,000 (bad news for Cuba). Philippines 1,400,000 for three years (better than the law allows).

Hawaii 975,000; Puerto Rico 875,000, and Virgin Islands, 15,000. They say an additional section was added to appease Cuba. It would set up a sugar reserve corporation through the R. F. C. With government money this corporation would buy needed additional Cuban sugar (about 300,000 the first year; 200,000 the second, and 100,000 the third.) Cuba will hardly smile at that.

CUBA This latter provision also is one which Agriculture Secretary Wallace is supposed to be annoyed about. He is interested in the consumer angle. The agreement shuts off importations of Cuban refined sugar above 150,000 tons a year. (We have imported as much as 600,000 tons of refined each year.)

Also it provides a minimum price for producers of sugar but says nothing at all about what shall be charged the consumer. Apparently the conscience of refiners is to be the guide.

PROSPECTS Some way will probably be found to iron out the bad spots and provide a good marketing agreement before long. Whatever is done, Cuba is bound to get the worst of it. The domestic industry must be protected. It can only be done at the expense of Cuba. Therefore the matter may be kept in the background until the political situation down there is more quiet.

OPEN MARKET The innermost banking circle hears that federal reserve purchases of government bonds this week will jump up to $100,000,000. That will be a real move toward substantial credit inflation.

Purchases so far have been running around $35,000,000 weekly. They have brought no appreciable results. It is quite possible the larger amount will also fail to make banks loosen up.

At any rate it will show the administration conclusively whether that method of credit stimulation is any good.

WORK Mr. Roosevelt is being overworked on financial matters. Treasury Secretary Woodin is in New York most of the time. Woodin's widely advertised return to the treasury was for three days only. His health is so precarious that strenuous application to his job now would be disastrous. His resignation has been delayed at substantial sacrifice to Mr. Roosevelt and himself.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt has been personally trying to co-ordinate the federal reserve board, Governor Sprague, Professors Warren and Rogers, Woodin and the treasury department.

It takes most of his time.

HITLER The Dollfus government in Austria is getting secret help from Italy and possibly from the French. That is what has enabled the Austrian dictator to stave off Hitlerism so successfully.

If Hitler fails in Austria, his days are numbered. At least that is the way our officials see the situation.

NOTES The demand for Huey Long medals is so great that 80,000 have been sold at 25 cents each. They were struck off to commemorate the Battle of Long Island, you may remember.

John Lee Coulter of the tariff commission is slated for the big new job as head of the sugar equalization board but insiders hear Mrs. Roosevelt's uncle, Forbes Morgan, has a good chance for it also.

Mr. Roosevelt has a memo on his desk recommending appointment of a "director of compliance" in the NRA. The director would keep track of how employers are living up to the requirements of the Blue Eagle.

The man who is doing the national planning preparation work for General Johnson is Assistant Administrator Hammond.

Wall Streeters whisper the real reason the market started going down last Thursday was an inside tip that France was going off the gold standard. Later the tip was discounted. You can make millions with rumors in Wall Street these days.

By Natural Title the Monkey Ouns Only the Bananas He Can Eat

By Robert Quillen

The earth belongs to those who can use it. Suppose the nations of the world, regardless of their strength or weakness, had always observed the rule that a land belongs to the race first to occupy it.

If that rule had been observed, Europe today would be a crowded land of hopeless paupers, and America would be as it was when whites men found it—a vast wilderness inhabited by a few million primitives without skill or incentive to develop its unlimited resources. Surely history will contend that such a rule, resulting in such conditions, would be either sane or moral.

By what right can a few savages claim vast areas they do not need and cannot use, while other men suffer and die for want of the undeveloped riches the land contains?

Have the primitives of Africa the right to hold that great continent forever, making no use of its timber and oil and metals, if other races have need of these things? The right of ownership must be determined by the law of reason, and by that law the nations justify their conquests. Judged by the rules that govern the conduct of individuals, the southwest was stolen from Mexico.

Yet Mexico could not and would not use the territory, and Americans have transformed it into an empire incredibly rich that supports millions, and ministers to the needs of the world.

Was America justified? Then Japan is equally justified when she seizes great areas on the mainland of Asia. The Chinese could not and would not make Manchuria safe for honest and industrious men, nor had they the capacity to develop its resources.

The Japanese, so crowded they scarcely can live, had need of the land and possess the ability to make full use of its treasures. History justifies their conquest. Does reason also justify it? Do you concede that the earth indeed belongs to those who need it and have the capacity to use it?

If you accept that principle, you concede that the rights of man are greater than the rights of property. If many men have no right to hold property they cannot use, while others need it, then the individual has no such right. And when that is agreed upon, the world has seen its last of great estates and of poverty.

TAL MADGE SPEAKER AT CHILLING RITES

Governor Tells Monticello Crowd That Recovery Is Coming From Farms.

MONTICELLO, Ga., Sept. 24.—(AP) Governor Eugene Talmadge declared in an address here today at the unveiling of a marker to the memory of William Fears, Revolutionary War hero, that as soon as normal conditions are restored to the rural community the nation will have prosperous conditions.

The governor deplored the fact that country schools are being allowed to decay. He referred to the hardships of the Revolutionary days and made some comparisons with present-day conditions, saying that "real recovery is coming from the farms."

The governor, it developed during the unveiling ceremony, is a distant relative of the Revolutionary soldier whose memory was honored today. He and Mrs. Talmadge and other friends from Atlanta and Forsyth, where the Fears at one time resided, were in attendance.

The governor and his party were escorted to the Fears cemetery, about six miles west of here, by the American Legion. There were 1,200 persons in attendance.

Le. O. Benton Jr., introduced the governor. Mrs. J. S. Wilson, regent of the Julia Marlowe chapter, D. A. R., presided. Mayor F. L. Penn, of Monticello, welcomed the governor. Jasper county, Mrs. O. E. Lancaster, of Shady Dale, past regent of the Julia Marlowe chapter, delivered the welcome for the D. A. R.

agreement could be reached there, the matter would go to Washington. The chairman of the Ford committee, of which Caspar B. Hughes is chairman, feels, Mills said, that the compliance board should be formed and that the complaints should be taken up in that order. Delay up to the present, he said, has been caused mainly by consideration of the fact that the Ford Motor Company, which has not signed the new automotive code and obtained a Blue Eagle, could not be represented.

In spite of this condition, Mills said, the Ford committee is being made a representative of the company and of its employees sit on the board. So far, he added, there has been no response from overtures to the Ford company.

Three Classes. The complaints, Mills said yesterday, fall into three classes: Some have to do with the election of the Ford Motor Company, which has not signed the new automotive code and obtained a Blue Eagle, could not be represented.

Others have complained against the Ford Motor Company, which has not signed the new automotive code and obtained a Blue Eagle, could not be represented.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 24.—"White for night," Jean Harlow succinctly in describing this choice for wear under the lights of evening. The famous platinum blonde believes that the most dramatic shade for after-6-o'clock wear; her favorite newest creation in white—an excitingly new and different crepe made with the fish tail, which is going to be a feature of evening gowns made a plea for the asserting—and what a plea!

Gleaming with silver beads arranged on two wide flanges above the train in the back—the train itself a solid mass of the tiny silver beads—the glittering frock faded perceptibly as it neared the front. At the gown had a delicate tracery in points at the skirt front.

The new Harlow white gown designed by Adrian is a crest, a line to waist in the front and held at the neckline with a beaded bow which belongs to a tiny capelet of the same material. The gown shows high in front and falls in soft ripples along the V decollete to the waistline in back. A narrow belt of black Lyons velvet is worn at the natural waistline.

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

'Our Wives,' Comedy of Character, Is Peruchi Offering for the Week

Continuing their policy of providing the best possible stage entertainment for the lowest of entertainment prices, the Peruchi Players at the Elmling theater launch a new week and a new production with another Ladies' Night show tonight at 8:15.

For these "Ladies' Nights," every Monday the usual low prices are pegged down even lower, with the best seats in the house going for 30 cents and others for 20 cents.

The show this week is that brilliant comedy of character, "Our Wives," from the pen of the internationally famous German playwright, Ludwig Fulda. Its theme is the well-known fact that when friends marry it is next to impossible to add their wives into the circle of friendship.

The Fulda play elaborates on this theme with delicious humor and, following the European comedy idea of stressing character, leads its protagonists from one situation to another that, through a series of laughter, sharply illuminates the different people in the play and brilliantly leads the plot to its inevitable romantic climax.

The play gives the Peruchi players plenty of excellent roles and, with another fine stage setting from the technicians, promises a week of delightful stage entertainment for the eighteenth week of the Peruchi stay in Atlanta.

The Elmling orchestra continues to provide snappy musical diversions from the pit between acts, with popular songs sung by Henry Parker, teaming with the latest dance numbers by the orchestra.

There will be the usual six performances at night, at 8:15, with the last performance on Wednesday and Saturday. Seats are reserved for all night performances, but not for the two matinees.

'Pilgrimage' Unusual, But Overdone in Spots

"Pilgrimage," a story of Gold Star Mothers who made the journey to France to see the graves of their dead sons, is a singular picture. One hardly knows what to think after seeing it at its showing at the Paramount theater this week.

There is no doubt at all that Henrietta Crossman gives a marvelous performance as the mother of one of those boys who went across the waters but failed to return. Neither is there doubt that Norman Foster, as the boy, and Marian Nixon and Heather Angel are pleasing in their roles. The doubt springs from the sentimentality brought into the picture by the producers who seek to draw tears from the audiences by scenes of the mothers "breaking up" at viewing the graves of their sons. It's highly overdone in places.

Henrietta Crossman seeks to portray an average mother of the middle west who never wants to lose her son to another woman but one who is forced to see that wives fill a spot in the lives of their sons that they cannot. Perhaps the most remarkable thing about her portrayal is her diction, which is as true as life itself. She quite evidently likes playing the role and at no point is one disappointed in her. Marian Nixon has a part smaller than is usually allotted to her, but she does well with it. Miss Angel has a still smaller part and though she ators temporarily dropped out of the negotiations between the government and anti-government forces in the belief that it was to the best interests of all concerned to give the various factions time to study their numerous proposals.

The Rotary club issued a statement saying it "assumes no responsibility for, nor necessarily agrees with declarations or speeches made by persons to whom use of the tribunal is permitted."

The statement was issued after President Grau had appeared before the club luncheon and declared, among other things, that "it may be understood that the interference of neither Washington nor Moscow can be permitted."

It was learned on good authority that a bomb had been sent through the mails to Colonel Fulgencio Batista and that he had been warned of a plan to kidnap his daughter.

It was reported that local newspaper publishers had offered to act as mediators in negotiations between Grau and his opponents.

Meanwhile, all Spanish language newspapers were suspended on account of strikes and only the English language newspaper Havana Post was published this morning.

WASHINGTON IS WORRIED BY REPORTS OF DISORDER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Cuba was described tonight at the state department as steaming with unrest, violence and growing lawlessness, increasing the possibility that American bluejackets and marines might have to land to protect American lives.

It was known here through private reports that Americans at several Cuban seaports were holding small boats in readiness to flee to warships off the coast if necessary. Officials made no secret of their concern.

At the same time it was learned that the continued unsettlement of the southern island's affairs was throwing awry the administration's plans and preparations for the seventh Pan-American conference to gather at Montevideo, Uruguay, early in December.

It had been planned that Sumner Welles, now ambassador to Cuba, would devote almost his entire time after returning here to preparation for the conference. It now appears that he must remain in Cuba considerably longer. Should American troops have to land in Cuba it is conceded also that the chances of the United States putting through its trade plans at Montevideo would be noticeably decreased.

Victor Jory Does Well In First Film as Star

Victor Jory, the handsome young man who created such a furor in "State Fair," has been given a chance in "The Devil's in Love," which is now showing at the Georgia theater, to show the kind of stuff he's made of, and he's surprisingly good. This is his first starring picture, and the boy can act.

Loretta Young, who supports him, is a refreshing sight for sore eyes, and the cameraman takes advantage of every opportunity he has to make the most of her rather spiritual beauty. Her acting is adequate, and it isn't any wonder that Jory is willing to sacrifice life itself after she has given him a few soulful glances.

Otherwise, the picture is fair to middling. It is the story of a military surgeon in the Foreign Legion, who, through no fault of his own, is charged with the murder of his superior officer on Wednesday and sentenced to death. He escapes with the aid of his friend, David Manners. He crosses the border, and goes in for decorating the poor. He meets Virginia Osborne, who in her way is the Texas Guinan of Africa, but she has a heart of gold and eye on the good doctor.

Tate attached a letter from Carter to Governor Talmadge, in which Carter said that a speed cop stopped his car at North Atlanta two weeks ago and assessed a bond of $15 against him.

With Carter were Dr. J. H. Downey, owner of Downey's hospital in Gainesville; D. W. Anderson, Gainesville furniture man, and W. B. Ward, Gainesville undertaker, Carter said.

"We were not driving at a reckless rate of speed and there is no sign on the highway to indicate that this road was being patrolled," Carter said to the governor. "As you are trying to break up the speed trap at Lula and Belton I would be glad if you would give this one your attention, as it is very much closer to you. There is certainly no indication to the travelling public that there is a town known as North Atlanta—nothing but a country road in the woods."

A Governor Talmadge Sunday night said he will not decide on possible action until after he has an opportunity of reading the letter from Carter and studying the matter.

Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, Sunday night said that reports indicate that "North Atlanta is somewhat of a speed trap," and that he has heard several comments on North Atlanta since the Lula-Belton case developed, but that he does not believe that the DeKalb town is pushing speeding cases very much.

Charging that the towns of Lula and Belton have been getting a "lot of untrue publicity regarding a so-called speed trap," Tate said in a letter to The Constitution that "the facts are that we here in Lula have not had any speed trap simply because we have our speed signs properly posted. There are 16 of them in number ranging from two feet square to four and one-half feet by seven and one-half feet reading as follows: 'Lula City Limits. Slow. Road Patrolled. Speed Limit 20 Miles Per Hour.' 'School Zone' and 'Slow Zone.' The town of Belton has similar signs posted."

"I also find," said Tate, "that other places have patrolmen and especially one closer to you than Lula or Belton known as North Atlanta with a patrolman taking bond from motorists in the amount of $15 instead of $5 as practiced by us. It also seems that this place mentioned has not got signs properly posted to warn motorists as we have, and still we get all the untrue publicity while this

M. C. 'CAL' SMITH, 43, PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Transfusions Fail To Save Life of District Superintendent for Rogers Co.

M. C. (Cal) Smith, 43, of Jonesboro, market district superintendent for the L. W. Rogers Company, died Sunday in an Atlanta hospital after a brief illness. Three of his friends, N. J. and T. J. Eberhart, and J. H. Wallace, gave blood in an effort to save his life, but the transfusions were unavailing. He was a member of the Morningside Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from the chapel of Atwell & Lowndes. The Rev. S. L. Morris will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. Officers of the L. W. Rogers Company will form an honorary escort.

Mr. Smith is survived by his wife, a step daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Mayo; his mother, Mrs. M. R. Smith; three sisters, Mrs. H. W. McLarty, Mrs. Arch M. Conway, and Miss Kate Smith, and a step-granddaughter, Miss Shirley Mayo, all of Atlanta, and a brother, D. O. Smith, of Cincinnati.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

Edited By JACK TUBBS

New York Stock House Executive Sees Steady Upward Trend in Business

ATLANTA CONCERN CARRIES FULL LINE OF SUITS, DRESSES

Company's Rapidly Expanding Volume Necessitates Maintenance of Factory of Its Own.

Convincing evidence of the steady upward trend in business is disclosed by I. D. Weitz, head of the New York Stock House, wholesalers in women's suits and dresses, with headquarters in Atlanta.

Not only has a decided upswing been noted in recent weeks, but the history of the company records a steady and consistent growth through the past years, until today it stands as one of the largest of its kind in the southeast.

The phenomenal success of the New York Stock House in its field has been largely attributed to its capacity for service, quality and friendship.

Friendliness, declares Mr. Weitz, is an attribute upon which any business must depend to a great extent if it is to prove a success—and to this he holds as one of his tenets: "Friendship comes before business."

The New York Stock House was established in Atlanta eight years ago first designed as a branch business affiliated with the Quality Garment Company, Inc., of Savannah, of which Mr. Weitz had been the head for 20 years.

So rapidly did the volume of the Atlanta business increase that Mr. Weitz found it necessary to move to Atlanta to take personal charge, and under his personal direction the New York Stock House has enjoyed a continued steady increase.

Further, so great became the demand for the merchandise of the New York Stock House that it was compelled to establish a manufacturing plant here—one of the largest of its kind in Atlanta, to take care of the growing trade in this territory in dresses and suits.

Though the business here originally had been intended as a branch of the Savannah concern, it proved so profitable that Mr. Weitz soon was forced to move the general offices here.

The Quality Garment Company, Inc., however, is still maintained in Savannah, and also enjoys a splendid and constantly increasing business, which Mr. Weitz reports has been much better this year than for several years past.

Both in Savannah and Atlanta, Mr. Weitz has enjoyed the acquaintance and confidence of countless customers of the New York Stock House, and

J. M. Harrison & Co. Increases Its Staff Of Skilled Dodge, Plymouth Mechanics

Skilled Dodge and Plymouth mechanics of the service department of J. M. Harrison & Co. are shown above: Left to right (front row): C. C. Moore, P. A. Crites, H. S. Breetz, D. K. Allgood, Fred Honea, Curtis Johnson, O. T. Moore, C. T. Westbrook, E. O. Gulley and J. S. Reid, assistant service manager; (back row): Johnnie Bishop, E. A. Webb, J. F. Langley, J. L. Beverly, W. W. Welden, Preston Ivey, D. E. Moore, Johnnie Kerlin, M. B. Dunn, C. E. Garbutt, C. E. Clackum and W. A. Posey, service manager.

Recent expansion of the service department of J. M. Harrison & Co., Dodge and Plymouth dealers, 111-117 Ivy street, N. E., has developed it into one of the most complete departments of its kind in the south—prepared to do everything necessary for an automobile.

Under the new scheme of things, it is unnecessary for the company to send any work outside to be done.

The service department is in charge of W. A. Posey Jr., who began Dodge work in 1919 and who has been with J. M. Harrison & Co. since 1927.

In keeping with its policy of ever increasing its service to Dodge and Plymouth owners, the company recently has put on four additional expert Dodge mechanics, enlarging the staff of specialists who have been with J. M. Harrison for years.

Announcement of these additions, recently addressed by letter to patrons of the company, said:

"We are pleased to announce the addition of four more Dodge mechanics: Preston E. Ivey, H. S. Breetz, to these friendships he attributes much of his success in this line of business."

The New York Stock House's under the N.Y.A. provisions, has added a number of employees and now lists its payroll at 75 persons.

In connection with the New York Stock House's factory, Mr. Weitz has employed on the road, but that the company's entire business is handled either by mail order or through buyers' personal calls. The company maintains on hand at all times a large supply of ladies' ready-to-wear to take care of and make immediate delivery of orders for old and new customers.

The sales office is situated at 176 Pryor street, under the direction of Miss Bertha Klein, who has been associated with the company since its organization eight years ago, and who is prepared at all times to take care of business matters during the absence of Mr. Weitz on frequent business trips.

The New York Stock House's factory, located at the corner of Mitchell and Pryor streets, is managed by Roy Gilliland, whose experience in this business extends over the last 10 years.

LOAN PLAN TENDS TO GIVE BUOYANCY TO COTTON MART

All of Advance, However, Lost on Disinclination of Washington To Peg Prices of Staple.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 24.—(AP) The cotton market was feverishly active and nervous the past week. The dominating influence was the efforts of southern cotton interests backed by southern congressmen to take action to advance the price of cotton, efforts which proved fairly successful at the close of the week when it was announced that the administration at Washington had agreed to lend 10 cents a pound on cotton of this crop to farmers who would agree to reduce the acreage of the crop to the figure fixed by the government.

The prospects for success in the efforts of southern interests to enhance the price of cotton led to an advance of 103 points in early week, but later the Washington authorities showed disinclination to adopt further inflation or peg cotton prices the market weakened and lost 104 points or all of the earlier advance.

As prospects brightened toward the end of the week prices rallied 25 points on Friday and when the agreement was finally reached prices rallied 60 points at the start on Saturday. Although some of this latest gain was lost on profit-taking the week closed with a net advance compared with last Saturday of 40 points or $2 a bale.

There has been considerable activity in spot cotton during the week with heavy daily sales fully reaching the totals of the corresponding week last season when the trading was large. There was a good inquiry both from domestic spinners and exporters as well as from large traders for investment purposes in anticipation of higher prices.

The weather was favorable for marketing the crop and the movement to market during the week has been heavy. Exports have also been liberal and the clearances for the season crossed the million bale mark during the week, showing a gain of about 115,000 bales over last season and of fully 500,000 bales over season before last for the corresponding period.

High, low and closing sales in the futures market during the past week compared with a year ago, follow:

	High	Low	Close	Year
Oct. ....	10.32	9.36	9.90	7.30
Dec. ....	10.62	9.58	10.15	7.42
Jan. ....	10.68	9.70	10.42	7.50
Mar. ....	10.89	9.84	10.40	7.58

hand, continued the previous week's upward trend and a number of new highs were recorded before profit taking shaded the gains. Bunker Hill and Sullivan, Newmont and New Jersey Zinc were in demand. Alcohols followed the general market into lower territory.

In the industrial category General Tire and Rubber slumped sharply at times, although in restricted trading, while Parker Rust Proof, Aluminum Company of America and Singer Manufacturing also had a reactionary tone. Oils sold quietly lower, Gulf dipping rather sharply on occasions.

Trading assumed active proportions and showed a sizeable increase over the previous week. Transfers averaged around 400,000 shares per session.

Emmett L. Quinn Stresses Building and Loan Safety

The First Mutual Building and Loan Association, located at 23 Auburn avenue, is destined to become a million dollar institution within the next few years.

This prophecy was made Saturday by Emmett L. Quinn, director of the association, deputy sheriff assigned to the civil division of Fulton superior court, and one of the most prominent figures in Atlanta's labor and fraternal circles.

Tracing the growth, development and future prospects of building and loan, Mr. Quinn pointed out that through the medium of building and loan, the working man is finding, for the first time, an adequate supply of funds to finance his home, as well as providing one of the safest sources of savings and investments.

The First Mutual, founded here in 1924, is the largest association of its kind in this section, having approximately $400,000 out in first mortgages. The association has never failed to pay a dividend of 6 per cent or more compounded semi-annually, and could be liquidated 100 per cent on the dollar, Mr. Quinn stated.

First Mutual's shares are exempt from state, county and city taxes. The association is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank System and the United States Building and Loan League.

"The building and loan associations came to their rescue, the working man was compelled to keep his nose to the grindstone, paying usurious rates of interest on borrowed money," Mr. Quinn said. "Why hundreds of workers even had to carry their pay checks to money lenders, merely getting back any, and the majority always were fearful of their positions. Hundreds lost their homes through foreclosures."

But, thanks to the building and loan associations, they have ended this evil and have enabled thousands to pay for their homes. The First Mutual, in a great number of instances, has reduced the installment payment on homes in order to meet the financial condition of the home buyer. And where a citizen owns a lot, the First Mutual will finance the erection of his home on financial payments that can be met conveniently and safely.

The First Mutual—a mutual association of the working man in which it is located—materially aids in its growth and prosperity and serves to retain millions of dollars in its territory.

"Those thriftily inclined, who desire to have the comfort of owning their homes, are investing in First Mutual. A great number upon completion of financing their homes, immediately become investors in the association, thus making their dollar work for the new home buyer, and receiving 6 per cent compounded semi-annually."

Mr. Quinn, who served as president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades for three terms and is past president of the local division of the International Association of Machinists, was born and reared in Atlanta. In addition to other duties, he now is studying law at night and stressing the importance of home-ownership. He became an investor in the First Mutual many years ago, and for four years has been a member of the board.

He pointed to the economical operation of building and loan associations, stressing the fact that every officer of the First Mutual is a hard worker and serves without compensation, except for the fact that the harder he works the safer and richer his investments are.

"Building and loan associations operate under a special act of the legislature, sanctioned by people who are students in building and loan," he said. "They are under the supervision of the state securities commission."

"Another reason why we can pay 6 per cent is the fact that our funds are constantly working, that loans are made only on first mortgage property. The safety of building and loan shares also is indicated by the fact that as borrowers liquidate their installments, the obligation the association has in the property is accordingly reduced, thus keeping the association 100 per cent liquid at all times. Building and loan provides a medium through which one, over a period of time, may attain to any financial goal he may care to set for himself and strive for."

Bond Mart Suffers Casualties in Week
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Blown about by the winds of inflation, bonds during the past week suffered their worst casualties in more than two months.

At its worst during the week, the Associated Press-Standard Statistic average for 60 domestic corporate loans was only about a point ahead of this average of the same week last year. It was also around 9 points under the 1933 high.

The industrial picture was a little blurred, with production showing declines in some quarters. Retail trade, though, continued to record healthy gains.

Precious Beyond Price....

Quality Is Still Quality

At Sterchi's Yet Prices Remain Low...

HOSE who truly value the fine things of life consider quality first, for it is unchanged by the conditions of the times. Our furniture has always been built to standards singularly fine, and even in a swiftly moving period as the present—when there is a general trend of lowering quality that low prices may be maintained—Sterchi's rigidly upholds their standards of the past.

And it is quite easy at that. . . for months ago, when present conditions were beginning to be felt, 39 Sterchi's stores went to the markets of America and placed future orders for thousands of dollars of merchandise. That furniture is arriving daily—Quality, HIGH, but prices MODERATE, just as of old.

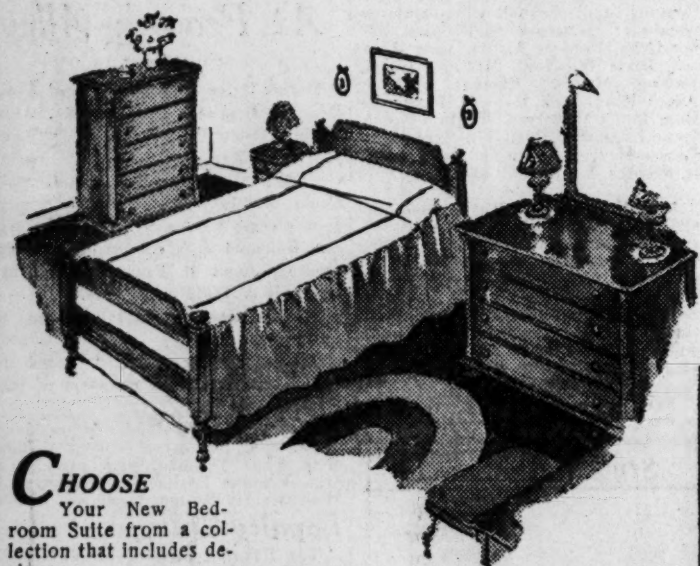

See the new creations today!—Choose the things you need for your home, at prices you will find it pleasant to pay.

When Worlds Collide

By EDWIN BALMER & PHILIP WYLIE

INSTALLMENT XIX.

As in the other emergency, Taylor was assigned to the kitchen. He walked to the kitchen with his men, Tony with 10 other men, a pitiful number for the apocalyptic task they were to perform. They went down to the field and began to gather up in trucks the bodies there. Not far from the cantonment, on what had been a lumbering, a massive fissure yawned in the earth. . . .

He was staggered. Before him stood Nathaniel Borgen, the fourth richest man in America, friend of all tyrants of the land, friend indeed of Theodore himself. Tony had last seen Borgen in the city, a few days before when Borgen had been immaculate, powerful, self-assured and barely approaching middle age. He now looked shrunken, degenerate, old, crawling.

"Drake?" he cried, his voice repeated. Tony nodded mechanically.

of you are courageous enough to truths—am I forced to add that decision has been made possible by diminution of our numbers.

"All of you know that I found this village of ours for the purpose of the future of the world will take the place of earth a pany of about one hundred people with the hope that they might be able to survive. I am going to me that a ship of large enough

All that day they tendere'd their own wounded. Many of them perished. . . . In those nightmare days no one slept. The men were exhausted. Life-long friendship and strong new friendships had been obliterated. Loves that in two months had flowered into passion were ended. For two weeks abysmal sadness and funeral silence held them. Only the necessary ardors of their toil prevented many from falling into a morose stupor. At the end of two weeks Tony, returning from an errand to the fissure where the last bodies had been entombed by the soldiers, found the sentry post above the encampment, and saw that once again the grass grew greenly, once again the buildings were clean and bright.

While he stood there, his attention was attracted by a strange-sound—the sound of an airplane motor; and the plane itself became visible. It landed presently on the beach, and Tony was one of several men who approached it. The cabin door opened, and a man in a flight suit and goggles, something familiar about him to Tony, but he could not decide what it was. The man had a high, cracking voice. "I'm Henderson," he said. "Your pictures were drawn, and his skin was yellow. His plot remained at the top of the page. The man who hobbled toward Tony, saying as he approached, "Please take me to Mr.

He stepped forward. "We don't m Mr. Henderson's assistant. We don't allow visitors here. Perhaps you will tell me your errand. Perhaps you will tell me," said Henderson, "the other snapped."

"Tony realized that the man constituted no menace," "Perhaps," said suddenly, "it will tell me your reason for wanting to see Licandro. I can arrange for the interview."

"The man who was arrested?" "You can arrange an interview," I tell you, Henderson, I said I would see Henderson, and that's all there is to it," said Tony, "and he said, 'You're Tony's lapel, cocked his head and peered into his face. "You're Drake. I'm your son, young Tony Drake?"

Suddenly Tony recognized the man that he was madly in love with. They sent Borgon away with his pilot and his plane full of money; and the presence of the financial were pronounced in a voice intended to be threatening as he leaned out of the cabin door: "I'll get an injunction against the presence of the financial himself. I'll have the supreme court behind me within 24 hours."

Nearly three weeks after the attack on the ship, the Hendersons there were two hundred and nine uninjured women, one hundred and eighty-two uninjured men. There were about 800 dead, and the Hendersons were wholly to recover. There were more than a hundred who would suffer some disability. Four hundred and thirty-five had been killed or had died after the conflict.

that, by dint of tremendous effort, co-operation, and largely because of the success of the experiments we have made, it will be possible within the coming months of time to construct a second and larger vessel which will be able to handle the entire dual personnel of this camp."

Henderson sat down. No cheer followed. As if they had seen the God of the living and the dead, they turned to stone. The sentence imposed the death-lottery had been life itself. Every man and woman who sat there had been given a chance to live, a chance to live, to fight and to make a new career elsewhere in the station firmament.

They sat silently, many with bowed heads, as if they were enured

Aunt Het

On one of the unseasonably warm afternoons in December Tony received what he considered afterwards to be the greatest compliment ever paid to him in his life. He was making one of his regular tours of the stock yards when Randall overtook him. In all their recent encounters, Randall had not spoken a hundred words to Tony; but now said almost gruffly, "I'd like to speak to you."

Tony turned and smiled at the South African. He hesitated, and almost blushed. "I'm not talkative," he said bluntly, "but I've been trying to find you alone for weeks." Again he hesitated.

"Yes?"

"That fight you put up—" Randall took a huge pocket-knife from his flannel shirt and commenced to open and shut it blade nervously. "That was a damn' fine piece of work, fell-low." "That was you?" Tony replied. "That was me," he said, laughing heartily. Ransdell held out his hand. They gripped, and in that grip the hands of former men were revealed. "From the time on, those rivals in love were as blood brothers."

Another general meeting was held in the dining hall. Hendron again took charge.

"The matter which I have to dis-

"With exceedingly humbleness requesting possibilities of return to former careers," he said. "I have seen it all before."

"I thought he was going to faint. I immediately afterward he began thumping his head on the wall."

"I'm not so sure," he said. "I personally feared for the Jap's life. He seems to be wiry; in fact, he seems to be a very strong man. I suspect he has traveled over."

Near Accord Reported On Tobacco Marketing

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Determined to get a marketing agreement on flue cured tobacco in a hurry, the farm administration announced tonight it would bring domestic companies into it through a broad application of licensing power if necessary.

The administration said it was near an accord with a group of the larger domestic buyers which would give the growers of flue cured tobacco 17 cents a pound for the remainder of the marketing year, but that difference still existed.

Heretofore, Secretary Wallace has licensed companies under a marketing agreement only after a majority of the industry had agreed to the pact. It was clearly indicated, however, that the tobacco concerns would be embraced in the contemplated agreement through licenses, which would make them liable to the secretary of agriculture for violations of the accord, even if all present differences were not ironed out.

128th Parachute Jump Is Fatal to Chuter

NEWPORT, Vt., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The 128th parachute jump of his career proved fatal today for Robert Keating, 39, of New York. He jumped from the plane of Lee Bowman during an exhibition at a commercial air meet at Derby field and was drowned in Derby pond, near here, when a high wind carried him off his course from an altitude of 200 feet and dropped him into the water.

The wind twisted the cords of his parachute about his body so that he was unable to swim. Aid did not reach him for several minutes and a three-hour attempt to revive him failed.

Keating was well-known in Florida and New England. His parents live in Los Angeles and he has two sisters at Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y.

C. M. Ketchum, manager of the Greensboro, N. C., chamber, said business had added 2,000 persons recently because the state government had balanced its budget, that business had picked up, and that 2,200 persons had recently received employment.

Bouncing Baby Born In Clinic at Hospital

Mrs. Delmar W. Black, 23, of 301 Harriet street, Sunday night walked into the Grady emergency clinic. She took a seat while her husband walked up to the clinic desk to explain that Mrs. Black wanted to be admitted to the maternity ward.

While Mr. Black was talking to a Grady doctor, he heard his wife call his name. Looking around, his wife dropped and he saw his wife sitting in the chair holding a new born infant in her lap.

The next few minutes marked intensive action on the part of Grady maternity physicians, with the result that mother and child were soon "doing well" in one of Grady's best beds.

In Georgia's Fields and Streams

By H. A. CARTER

'GATORS' WAYS.

We were discussing reptile collecting in south Georgia. "You know," said the man who lives there, "I have read in many places that when alligators go into a state of torpor during the winter, they always swallow a piece of wood, which is held in the stomach all winter, and disgorged again in the spring."

"Yes," we answered eagerly. "We have read of the same thing, but never had a chance of confirming it yet. Is it questionable in your mind?" asked the man who lives there. "A nod of the head led him to go into the story more in detail. I can confirm that observation. One of the earliest reports of the matter was made about 1800. This set me wondering if it might not be some tale cooked up by an explorer in the Everglades to strain the credulity of his readers. But when I had a chance to see for myself, I found that it was correct. There may be a good-sized piece present in a 'gator's stomach' when you get the specimen in the dormant period."

"Have you any theories about it? Do you know why that is true?" "It seems to me," he said, "that the 'gator takes the wood into the stomach in order that the digestive fluids may have something to work on during the winter. Naturally, whatever is left of food in the alimentary canal as the 'gator goes into hibernation is rapidly digested. If there were not something in the stomach to absorb the digestive fluids, the stomach itself would become ulcerated, much as in any starving animal. Reasonable, it seems to me," I nodded.

"At any rate," he continued, "I know that when this wood is disgorged in the spring, it carries a thick coating of mucous material. That is the only basis I have for my argument that it keeps the tissues of the digestive tract in good condition."

I wondered about this considerably. Possibly my friend was moved by the same ideas that motivated the explorer he mentioned. I cannot say. I do know that I have secretly resolved to test the thing out at the earliest opportunity. Some of you may have heard of this before. If you have, there is less likelihood that it is in error for such preposterous stories are not readily perpetuated unless there is some basis in fact. We shall see about this.

Bullet-Shaped 'Railplane' Designed For 90-Mile Speed Built by Pullman

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—(AP)—A "railplane" car built along the lines of airplane architecture and designed to carry passengers over railroad tracks at 90 miles an hour was announced today by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Corporation.

Sixty feet long and with seating capacity for 50 persons, the car is manufactured of a heat-treated aluminum alloy weighing only one-third as much as steel. The car weighs only 25,000 pounds.

Shaped like a bullet with both ends rounded, the car is built to cut down air resistance to the lowest point. The streamlining of its architecture is designed to reduce wind resistance from the front or sides, and to take advantage of any favorable breezes.

Two engines are attached to the outside of the car, in the wheels. This position leaves all of the interior for passenger space, engineers pointed out.

The car also was built on such lines that the shock of any collision would be taken up in the ends, protecting the remainder of the vehicle from damage.

Windows are sealed tight, artificial ventilation being provided to keep the car cool in summer and warm in winter. Precautions also have been taken to make the car fireproof. Silent wheels are used, with rubber in the trucks to absorb vibration.

The outside of the car presents an entirely smooth surface, with steps leading up to the entrance, and the contour of the body. There are aprons to save wind resistance on the wheels.

The vehicle was designed in the Stoughton Engineering Laboratories, Inc., at Detroit.

U. S. DOPE SLEUTHS NAB OFFICE BOY AS HOP PEDDLER

"Boy," the city editor called. "No answer." "Boy!" in tones a bit louder. Still no answer.

"Boy! Where in the devil is that office boy?"

While the city editor was thus calling for the absent one, let's see what was happening to him.

It seems that while one of The Constitution's office boys was taking a short constitutional walk during his supper hour Sunday night, federal narcotic officers were roaming the streets looking for a suspect who was supposed to be wearing a brown suit.

The boy, it so happened, also wore a brown suit.

When he finally showed up at the office, his face was about three shades whiter.

"Where've you been?" demanded the city editor.

"And then the story was told of an abduction by narcotic officers, who took their prisoner to the federal building offices only to turn him loose with a few apologies when they got him in a good light and found that he didn't even look like the suspect they were after."

"They sure are great detectives," commented the erstwhile prisoner in disgust.
